Creative Corner A Poem by our student, Kshitiza Katoch, University Institute of Legal Studies

The cry I hear
every gloomy dark night dejection and sorrow
reaches it's height

Searching for lap
to get a good nap
knowing rosary and prayer won't change my hap

waiting for slumber
even lullabies can't aid carrying this lumber entity , deity and grave betrayed

Hoping till exhaust
the oldest the hope is hardest
to be lost.

Our Scholarship Students are Making Us Proud
